► A portion of the peace bridge is currently visible but the entire structure will be placed over the river next month, according to city officials.

Nearing completion

Calgary's Peace Bridge will move one step closer to completion next month as the city prepares to move the structure across the river.

After several delays, the Peace Bridge project is nearing the final stages of construction, according to general manager of transportation Mac Logan.

"The current project progress is pointing to launching of the bridge across the Bow River, on top of the temporary bridge, towards the later part of the second week of November," said Logan, in an email to Metro.

This will be the first time the public will see the full structure.

In a previous interview, Logan indicated that when the bridge is placed on the temporary abutment, additional work, such as the installation of lighting and handrails, can begin.

Although city officials have been hesitant to attach a completion date to the project, Logan said they are hoping to open the bridge to the public as soon as possible.

"Once the bridge is in the final stages of construction, we can provide a more accurate time frame."

Reason behind delay

- Identified. Improper welds have been identified as a primary reason for the Peace Bridge delays.
- Schedule. Completion of the bridge was initially slated for the end of 2010.

Paxton jury hears of brutal injuries

Jurors in an ongoing Calgary torture trial reportedly heard of injuries suffered by a roommate of the accused that were so severe a brain injury was not deemed a medical priority.

Dustin Paxton is accused of aggravated assault, unlawful confinement and sexual assault in the incident.

When he arrived at a Calgary hospital in September 2009, Paxton's alleged victim, who cannot be named, was reportedly suffering from a collapsed lung caused by a broken rib, multiple face fractures, a broken orbital bone and a hole in his small intestine.

Doctors also found a small amount of blood in his brain but were forced to address other injuries first, court heard. ●METRO

Person hit by C-Train

One person was taken to hospital with life-threatening injuries after being struck by a C-Train early yesterday morning.

According to police, initial reports suggested the victim, who had been reported by motorists as wandering along Memorial Drive, was struck by a vehicle on the roadway.

Police said the person was hit by a westbound train around 5:45 a.m., west of the Bridgeland station. Any witnesses are asked to call police at 403-266-1234. ●METRO

Redford won't cower from budget balance

- Speech mirrored promises Redford made in her leadership campaign

LARRY MACDOUGAL/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Alberta Premier Alison Redford, making her first speech in the legislature since taking over the top job, promised yesterday that her government will balance the budget within two years.

"Albertans expect their government to plan for the future, and we will not let them down," Redford told the house in a speech to open the fall sitting of the assembly.

"We will balance the budget by 2013-14. And we will plan ahead."

The speech capped a unique day in the legislature. Politicians agreed to suspend the regular business of the house to allow the leaders of all parties to speak in an emergency debate on how the province can respond to the teetering global economy.

It was Redford's first day in the premier's chair since being sworn in on Oct. 7.

She took over a Progressive Conservative government that has been running steep multibillion-dollar budget deficits in recent years as lean times around the globe have taken a bite out of oil prices.

Opposition parties said they agreed to an emergency debate on the economy, but instead got a stump speech of rehashed campaign promises from the premier.

"Bit of a bait-and-switch there in order to allow the new premier to deliver a faux speech from the throne," said NDP Leader Brian Mason.

Kent Hehr, deputy leader of the Alberta Liberals, said to make things work in the house a certain amount of trust is required on all sides. "At some point in time you have to give your compatriots on the other side of the house a break and say, 'We ... listen to what you have to say.' That didn't seem to happen today," said Hehr. THE CANADIAN PRESS

"You can't keep away from these," said Stanton. Once the painting is complete, Stanton will receive the pieces to place back together and he will finish the five big murals.

Although no final location has been decided on, installation should begin around the beginning of November.

Traffic on city website slows after upgrade

KATIE TURNER

Since upgrades were made to the City of Calgary website in August, site views have eclipsed one million; however, this number is lower than that of the previous website.

Between Aug. 15 and Oct. 19, 1,025,265 people visited the new Calgary.ca — 68,984 on mobile devices — while 1,975,742 site visits were recorded at the same time last year.

The city's information technology manager, Ed Greidanus said site improvements explain the approximately 18 per cent drop in page views between the new and old site.

Greidanus said upgrades to the technology have resulted in more accurate counting of site visit counts.

Teaching equality

► Researchers, advocates and other experts will be consulted on matters related to alternative lifestyles

JEREMY NOLAÏS
@METRONEWS.CA

Officials elected by Alberta school boards are working on a policy advisory in the hopes of fostering a more open environment for lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender students.

Currently, the Calgary Board of Education and Calgary Catholic School District do not have policies specifically designed to combat bullying of students experimenting with alternative lifestyles.

"I think school boards across the province recognize this is a population they all have," said Jacquie Hansen, president of the Alberta School Boards Association, which is working on the advisory. "We are supporting (boards) by developing a policy they could use."

Edmonton's public board passed an LGBTQ policy in the spring and has been pushing for a provincial measure since.

Calgary mother Diane Fjaagesund deemed the policy creation an important step. Her 12-year-old daughter Caprice Kirkhope came out earlier this year and experienced months of ridicule from friends — some went as far as calling her "gross and disgusting."

Fjaagesund said the matter has since been resolved but believes it's time for school boards to be more proactive in educating students.

"They don't know what they're doing," she said.

Lesbian couple turfed from Timmies

► Tim Hortons says it apologized, not store's intent to 'offend or target anyone based on ... sexual orientation'

A southwestern Ontario reverend says he was acting as a concerned father when he complained about a couple's public display of affection at a Tim Hortons in Blenheim last month.

Eric Revie of Glad Tidings Community Church says he was there with his wife and two children when he asked the manager to tell the couple to tone it down.

Riley Duckworth, 25, of London, and her partner Patricia Pattenden, 23, say they were told to leave the coffee shop because they are lesbians.

But Revie says at the time he thought it was a man and woman and found out the couple was actually same sex after he complained.

"There was a couple that were straddling each other, making out ... not just kissing, going further than that," Revie told a Chatham radio station yesterday.

"I had my children there. I asked the manager if she could ask them to tone it down," he said.

Duckworth says she and Pattenden were outside drinking coffee with family and friends and kissed once or twice but denies they were groping each other.

Duckworth said she and Pattenden were told "to leave within five minutes or the cops would be called."

Dozens of people, including friends, family and members of Pride Chatham-Kent, plan to demonstrate outside the coffee shop on Thursday.

Alexandra Cygal, a Tim Hortons spokeswoman, said management has apologized and invited the women back.

Duckworth said she'll never return to Tim Hortons again. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Few jailed over grow-op charges: Study

Only about one of every six people convicted in marijuana grow-op cases goes to jail, says a newly released Justice Department study.

The finding suggests the new minimum-sentence provisions in the Conservative government's omnibus crime bill could dramatically increase the number of people behind bars for running grow-ops.

Bill C-10, now before a House of Commons committee, would impose a minimum sentence of six months' jail for anyone growing between six and 200 marijuana plants. Minimum terms increase in steps to two years for higher quantities, with more severe terms for using rented premises. The study was obtained under the Access to Information Act.

Where refugees can dream

► Life a journey, not a destination for those living in Dadaab, Kenya
 ► Metro offers a glimpse inside the world's largest refugee camp

JORDAN POUILLE METRO WORLD NEWS

In the middle of the desert, 100 kilometres from Somalia and 500 kilometres from Nairobi, Mohamed and Hussein, both 22, listen to an MP3 player on their plastic chairs while waiting for kids to be vaccinated. Since last summer, an epidemic of measles has been spreading all over Dadaab, a camp with 450,000 people. Ninety-seven per cent of them are Somali citizens who escaped their country because of drought, famine and lack of security. Dadaab refugee camp, established in 1991, has been getting bigger and bigger ever since.

Mohamed and Hussein work as nurses at the International Rescue Committee (IRC) hospital. It's only a handful of white tents where newly arrived refugee families can get medical treatment and food for their malnourished children.

The young men have been assigned to the Kamboos annex, a new camp set up by UNHCR, the UN refugee agency, to relieve overcrowding in historical camps of Dagahaley, Agadera and Ifo.

Fortunately, a groundwater reserve has just been discovered here, food is provided by the UN World Food Programme on a daily basis but everything else — education, hospital, toilets and even security — is still lacking.

Mohamed and Hussein know too well what this is all about. There are Somali refugees who came here

Dadaab camp

Dadaab, with a total area of 50 square kilometres and a population of roughly 450,000, is the largest refugee camp in the world.

with their families when they were two years old. Mohamed often says, "I wish I could come back if my country was peaceful."

But will it ever be? In Somalia, al-Shabab fighters control most of the country including the outskirts of Dadaab refugee camp. Somali authorities have not been able to create a stable government for the last 20 years and African Union troops in Mogadishu are overwhelmed.

Canada, the United States and Great Britain are the few countries that offer exile to Somali refugees. A dozen of ex-Dadaab residents are now enjoying scholarship in Canadian universities, for example. But competition is fierce and Mohamed believes he might never be able to leave Dadaab. Life is tough in the desert but he is thinking about settling down for real.

"I am going to start looking for a girlfriend here. I hope she will be educated and hard-working like me."

Once Mohamed gets married, UNHCR will give him a tent. He might want to start a small business with his brother, who studies at a Dadaab vocational school financed by the Norway Refugee Council. Here, young Kenyan locals or refugees learn how to cut hair, apply makeup, sew and even how to fix a radio receiver.

The school headmaster admits that it's hard to convince refugees to turn up at school everyday: "Some of our students have never seen their parents working, since everybody here relies on food supply. And others think they will never escape: we call it the Bufis Syndrome (Bufis is a Somali word that expresses a strong desire for relocation). Our main task is to motivate them."

Mohamed and Hussein also discovered that their refugee situation made young local Kenyans jealous.

"We went to school and found a job. They did not."

► Life has a label on it: The blue wristband will enable these children to benefit from emergency health care and food at Dadaab.

Air Canada takes on arbitrator's ruling

► An Air Canada worker protests on Parliament Hill in Ottawa last Friday.

► Airline denies request for judicial review violates collective agreement

The fragile labour peace between Air Canada and the union representing its customer-service workers could be in jeopardy after the airline challenged an arbitrator's ruling on pensions, the union's head said yesterday.

Air Canada takes issue with the decision to create a dual-structure pension plan for new hires and wants a federal court to review how the decision was reached.

CAW national president Ken Lewenza said Air Canada's request amounts to a violation of the collective agreement, which was reached this summer after a three-day strike.

"These guys think they're bigger than the law. They think they're bigger than collective bargaining and obviously I think it impedes the kind of relationship moving forward," Lewenza said. The arbitrator sided with the union's proposal for a hybrid pension plan.

Newly hired customer-service agents were to have a mixed defined-benefit and defined-contribution pension formula while current employees remain in a defined-benefit plan.

The company says arbitrator Kevin Burkett unfairly accepted a last-minute CAW offer that amended the pension terms. It said the offer was made after each side submitted their final offers.

"The board's jurisdiction was expressly limited to selecting one of two final offers and it exceeded that jurisdiction when it selected a third offer which was not a final offer," the company said in its application filed to both federal and Ontario courts. THE CANADIAN PRESS

First Honda ever reaches million-mile milestone

A Maine man and his car are celebrating a million-mile milestone.

Joe LoCicero was given a 2012 Honda Accord at a parade in the city of Saco on Sunday after surpassing the million-mile (1.6 million-kilometre) mark on the odometer of his 1990 Accord. He reached the milestone last Thursday.

A Honda spokeswoman tells The Portland Press Herald it's the first time the manufacturer has documented an Accord reaching one million miles.

LoCicero says he bought the car in 1996 with 74,000 miles (about 120,000 kilometres). The former mechanic did much of his own work. The secret he says is following maintenance schedules, using quality parts and driving safely.

He swears the transmission and engine are original.

Now that he has a new Accord, he's not sure what he'll do with the old one.

Mattel to take over Thomas and friends

Mattel has agreed to buy the company behind Thomas the Tank Engine and Bob the Builder for $680 million US in cash, the toy maker's biggest acquisition in a decade.

The owner of Barbie, Hot Wheels and Fisher Price toys announced yesterday that it is buying Hit Entertainment from a consortium led by private equity firm Apax Partners.

Mattel Inc. already markets many Thomas & Friends die-cast and plastic toys under a licence that extends until 2014. Global sales of those toys are more than $150 million.

The deal will help combine its own global marketing and distribution capabilities with Hit Entertainment's global programming and licensing expertise, said Robert A. Eckert, said Mattel CEO.

The acquisition will allow it to take over the licence for wood-based toys as well. The deal is expected to close in 2012.

Netflix branches into UK, Ireland

STREAMING. Netflix Inc. plans to offer its online subscription service to the United Kingdom and Ireland starting early next year, providing access to movies and television shows. The company said yesterday that subscribers will get unlimited TV shows and movies streaming online to their televisions and computers, Macs, tablets and cellular phones for a monthly fee.

Details about pricing, content and supported devices will be disclosed closer to launch.

Harley recall due to brakes

RECALL. Harley-Davidson is recalling about 308,000 motorcycles, most of them in the U.S., to fix a switch problem that can cause failure of the brake lights and possibly even the rear brakes themselves.

The company says that brake-light switches can be exposed to too much heat from the exhaust system. The problem affects Touring, CVO Touring and Trike vehicles from the 2009 through 2012 model years.

Harley says it will notify owners of the recall. Dealers will install a rear brake-light-switch kit free of charge.

Murdoch's son to be grilled over hacking a second time

HACKING. British lawmakers said yesterday they will grill Rupert Murdoch's son James about newspaper phone hacking for a second time next month, as Murdoch's former right-hand man denied that he knew about the scale of the wrongdoing when he paid $400,000 US to a reporter convicted of illegal eavesdropping.

The House of Commons culture, media and sport committee said James Murdoch, his father's heir-apparent, will give evidence on Nov. 10.

Canadians to fix maps

► Google Map Maker allows users to help create a more accurate atlas

Google's search tool changes

Google has quietly made significant changes to how it performs searches and users are demanding an undo.

Users on Google's help forum recently noticed that adding the + symbol in searches no longer works.

Using the + symbol before a word ensured that Google only retrieved web pages including that term. For example, a search for "Canada online" produced a list of web pages that all included the word Canada somewhere on the page.

Now, users must use double quotation marks around a word instead of the old + symbol: "Canada" replaces +Canada in Google-speak. Reaction has been largely negative.

"This recent change is another step toward simplifying the search experience to get you to the info you want," Kelly Fee, a Google search community manager, wrote in response to complaints.

Wikileaks on brink of collapse

WikiLeaks — whose spectacular publication of classified data shook world capitals and exposed the inner workings of international diplomacy — may be weeks away from collapse, the organization's leader said yesterday.

Although its attention-grabbing leaks spread outrage and embarrassment across military and diplomatic circles, WikiLeaks' inability to overturn the block on donations imposed by American financial companies may prove its undoing.

"If we don't knock down the blockade we simply will not be able to continue," said founder Julian Assange yesterday.

Assange said his group would cease what he called "publication operations" to focus its energy on fundraising. He added that WikiLeaks needs an additional $3.5 million to keep it going.

DIY COSTUME TRICKS A TREAT

SHE SAYS ...

JESSICA NAPIER
METRO

All right made-up holiday enthusiasts, October 31st is just around the corner and while some of us like to plan elaborate costume concepts months ahead of time, I'm sure plenty of you are still scrambling to figure out what to wear come Halloween night. Before you spent $50 on a lame store-bought pirate costume (oh look, another Captain Jack Sparrow), you might want to consider what you're trying to achieve on the most spooktacular night of the year. Whether you're going for scary, sexy or something else entirely, here are a few do-it-yourself costume ideas with various outcomes.

Objective: Upstage all of your friends in an inappropriate fashion.

Costume: Pippa Middleton (bridal edition).

What you'll need: Body-hugging white dress, fake British accent, show-stealing caboose.

Objective: When it comes to Halloween, you want people to know that you're totally over it.

Costume: Brooklyn hipster.

What you'll need: Plaid shirt, ironic mustache, Moleskin notebook filled with passages from your favourite posts on Thought Catalog. Remember to keep your "I'm so bored" face on for the entire night.

Objective: Finish all of that leftover self-tanner you've been meaning to throw out.

Costume: Lindsay Lohan mug shots through the ages.

What you'll need: Three friends, blond wigs, orange jumpsuits. Don't forget to practice your parole-breaking smirks beforehand.

"Ryan Gosling in Drive ... If you can pull this off, call me."

Objective: You're not exactly sure what swooning looks like, but you'd like to find out.

Costume: Ryan Gosling in Drive.

What you'll need: Satin scorpion jacket, driving gloves, smoldering good looks. If you can pull this off, call me.

Objective: Inspire others to question whether it's "too soon" for your costume.

Costume: Steve Jobs.

What you'll need: Black turtleneck, jeans, iPad, questionable sense of timing.

Objective: Accumulate enough mini Snickers bars to last you until mid-December.

Costume: Good-natured parent.

What you'll need: Comfortable walking shoes, flashlight, pillowcase, borrowed child willing to share the goods (this might be hard to find).

Objective: You want fellow partygoers to roll their eyes and call you a tool.

Costume: Charlie Sheen.

What you'll need: Bowling shirt, fedora, vials of #tigerblood, a couple of blonde women willing to act as your "goddesses" for the evening (even harder to find than the aforementioned candy-sharing child).

Worth mentioning

Russian President Dmitry Medvedev promoted the game of badminton in his video blog yesterday, describing it as the choice of those who seek success.

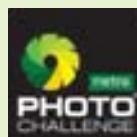

Dressed to play and holding a badminton racket, he told viewers that the sport helps not only in developing physical fitness and quick reactions but in learning to make decisions in life.

"Those who play badminton well can make quick decisions, which means they have the will to achieve success," Medvedev said in the clip posted on the Kremlin website.

He is then shown playing the game with Prime Minister Vladimir Putin, the two of them hitting a shuttlecock back and forth in an otherwise empty sports hall.

Medvedev's video clip was intended to promote badminton in Russian schools, but it was met with some ridicule on the Internet — even on his own edited blog, where Dmitry Yermolayev suggested that he should be worried about "more global issues than the type of physical education in schools."

WEIRD NEWS

Vette stalls theft dead in its tracks

A would-be car thief allegedly armed with an axe has learned a powerful lesson from a powerless car parked in a Prince George, B.C., driveway.

RCMP Cpl. Craig Douglass said yesterday that Brent Jameson Morgan, 20, allegedly jumped into the idling Corvette just as the owner was putting away a charger used to revive the sports car's dead battery.

The owner watched in disbelief as the suspect rolled up the power windows, locked the power doors and promptly stalled the vehicle.

The shocked owner wasn't able to take any action because the man in his car was brandishing bear spray, Douglass said.

With not enough juice in the battery to restart the car, the suspect was trapped inside the Corvette after failing to break the window with the victim's anti-theft steering wheel lock and an axe in his backpack.

"As it turns out, all the suspect would have had to do was manually slide the door lock to the side and the door would have opened," Douglass said.

Morgan has been charged with theft, mischief, possession of break-in instruments and one other charge.

Felicity Jones bares all

► The Like Crazy star dishes on the movie's heavily improvised, non-stop filming style

SCENE@METRONWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

British actress Felicity Jones makes a name for herself with Like Crazy, a lyrical, honest portrayal of a young couple (Jones and Anton Yelchin) dealing with the harsh realities of romance at odds with the practical world. It's a bold, emotionally honest performance, and one Jones had to maintain throughout shooting — the heavily improvised film was shot nearly round-the-clock, with the two leads never knowing what exactly would make it on screen. An odd working experience, to be sure, but one Jones says changed her life.

You were pretty much in character around the clock for this movie. How was that?

You just have to live and breathe it for the time that you're making the movie, so you don't have the mind-space to think about anything else but that. And so we were all at a point in our lives where we wanted and were able to just completely immerse ourselves in this project. And so we just spent every minute of the day with each other. It became this rather intimate triumvirate with Drake, Anton and I. We all felt that we wanted to make something unusual and wanted to be brave and not be conventional.

► Felicity Jones says that filming Like Crazy nearly around the clock and in a heavily improvised way changed her life.

How has your approach to other projects changed after working this way?

I found after Like Crazy, it was a revolution in many ways, in that all the ideas I'd had about acting and about performance were completely changed. And after Like Crazy, I felt this incredible calmness that I'd never had before. As an actor, because you don't have control over the whole product, you become quite the perfectionist. But after Like Crazy I suddenly just felt more relaxed about letting things be, and that the whole ethos of improvisation is that things will happen, and interesting creative things will happen if you relax. And I took that mantra with me. I think every few years there's a job that completely changes everything, and Like Crazy was one of those jobs.

The film skips over a lot of the bigger, more traditional movie moments for a romance.

What's interesting is — because we shot so much footage and the takes are so long — is that you just keep going until you find something interesting. You can be filming 40-minute takes and things like that. It was really unclear where the story would go, and actually things that were in the outline that were in the original script didn't end up in the final film. I was so surprised when I first watched it that you spend so little with them when they're actually enjoying their relationship. That's such a small part of the

Vital stats

- Name: Felicity Jones
- Age: 27
- Past Work: The Oxford-educated actress has appeared on camera in such British staples as the Tempest, Brideshead Revisited and Doctor Who
- Earning acclaim: Jones won a Special Jury Prize at the 2011 Sundance Film Festival for her performance in Like Crazy
- Up next: Jones can soon be seen in the BBC thriller Page Eight and Hysteria, about the invention of the vibrator. She also recently completed filming a second feature with Like Crazy director Drake Doremus.

film, and in the original script that was half the movie.

That summer courtship montage does go by incredibly fast.

Exactly, exactly. But in a way I think that's what makes it so powerful, because as an audience you feel like, "I want more of that!" Which is how they feel. It's exactly what we want. We want to manipulate your emotions.

How do you decompress from making a film like this?

Um... lots of alcohol (laughs). Don't put that in. Just reading and watching movies, and moving very little from the couch to the kitchen is the main thing.

▶ Experts warn that you are playing a dangerous game if you are trying to cut calories so that you can drink.

Cutting weight to drink

▶ New study shows that “drunkorexia” more common among young women

CELIA MILNE
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

Saving calories to go drinking?

The idea of rationing food so there are calories to spend on alcohol is not new. Girl groups laugh about it. College students do it. But it could be a dangerous habit for those in your group who have social and anxiety problems.

Sixteen per cent of college students in a recent U.S. survey admitted to combining disordered eating and binge drinking. The practice — which has been coined “drunkorexia,” was three times more common in women than men, according to research at the University of Missouri.

“The report doesn’t surprise me and I’d imagine there could be a similar pattern in Canadian students,” says Lauren Dixon, a social worker in the Eating Disorders and Addiction Clinic at the Centre for Addiction and Mental Health (CAMH) in Toronto.

Drunkorexia is not a formal diagnosis but rather an identified pattern of behaviour, she adds. The appeal for students is that they prevent weight gain, get drunk faster and save money.

But kids are toying with powerful forces here, warns Dixon.

“If it’s a trend among friends to use alcohol meal-replacement, some young women in the group may be significantly more vulnerable than others to have the behaviour develop into a full-fledged eating or alcohol disorder.”

Both problems emerge, she says, from the same fundamental difficulty with managing emotions and social interactions.

Victoria Osborne, from the University of Missouri, warned that drunkorexia can have shorter-term consequences such as having difficulty concentrating, being more at risk for violence, engaging in risky sexual behaviour, developing alcohol poisoning, and damaging vital organs. Her research has not yet been published or peer-reviewed.

Getting help

What you need to know

▶ Advice Some people who regularly skip food and then binge drink are at risk for serious eating disorders and alcohol dependence. If you’re worried about a friend or family member, let them know you’re concerned and tell them you understand, suggests Lauren Dixon, a social worker in the Eating Disorders and Addiction Clinic at the Centre for Addiction and Mental Health (CAMH) in Toronto.

Learn how to be that breast cancer husband

► Marc Silver talks to Metro about the questions you are too afraid to ask

"Stop talking and listen to your wife saying how much cancer sucks," says Marc Silver, author of How To Be a Breast Cancer Husband. He answers questions you could be too scared to ask.

How do I deal with the news?
Your wife needs husbandly support. The worse thing you can do is go into denial. It may be a human reaction, but it's a selfish one. None of us want to become caregivers but if your wife is feeling lonely and bereft, she needs comfort from the one she loves.

How do we tell the kids?
If there is the slightest bit of uncertainty, wait to be sure before you break the news. Lay out the facts to them but place more emphasis on the good prognosis. Kids can tell if you're lying so be honest with them. Have a weekly update with them on the situation.

What do I do when she goes bald?

A man doesn't expect his wife to have a shiny scalp. Many women find it harder to lose their hair to chemo than breasts to surgery. A bald head is an instant cancer giveaway, the size of her cleavage isn't. Your wife should be ok to walk around the house without her wig. If you're a Star Trek fan, tell her you now love her even more bald.

Can we have 'chemo' sex?
Can we have sex during chemo is an awkward question to ask an oncologist. It's possible to maintain intimacy during chemo. The loss of physical touch is a huge loss and if you pull back she'll think you no longer find her attractive. There are other ways of being connected intimately.

Thoughts on Grace

BEAUTY. Grace is always with us. It flows through our lives, artfully reminding us that there is magic and power beyond what our eyes can see. At times we catch its subtle beauty, like during chance meetings, near misses and insights that seem to come from nowhere. Grace exists in all situations, in every moment, yet all too often we overlook its presence.

Imagine how it would feel to live an entire day in grace, to fully appreciate that your day is unfolding in absolute perfection. By living this one day in grace, you might open the door to many more.

The secret to staying young Research from McMaster University suggests that endurance exercise might help fight, and even reverse, the signs of aging such as balding, grey hair and thinning skin.

What is endurance exercise?

Aerobic activity, such as brisk walking, running or cycling, that improves cardio-respiratory fitness. And the longer you do an aerobic activity, the better your endurance.

So, how was the study done?

It may sound strange, but the lead researcher had mice with physical characteristics comparable to a middle-aged person do 45-minute runs three times a week. Their skin became tighter, and their fur grew back and stopped turning grey. The theory is that exercise produces hormone-like chemicals that have a beneficial effect on tissues. Of course, building your endurance as takes time. But the potential of finding the fountain of youth seems like a pretty good incentive to me.

Sweet &amp; Spicy Cajun Roasted Nuts

ed guests is nice, but it's always good to have snacks on hand to offer. These dressed up peanuts go perfectly with beer or cocktails.

Preparation:

1 Preheat oven to 300°F (150°C). Line baking sheet with parchment paper. In bowl, whisk egg white until frothy. Then whisk in sugar and seasonings until blended. Add peanuts; stir to coat.

2 Spread nuts on prepared baking sheet. Roast in oven, stirring couple of times until nuts are golden brown and mix is barely sticky, 25 minutes. Taste, adding more salt if needed. Cool completely, breaking up nuts as they cool. Store in an airtight container for a couple of weeks. NEWS CANADA/PEANUTBUREAU.CA

Ingredients:

- 1 egg white
- 1/4 cup (60 mL) granulated sugar
- 1 tsp (5 mL) Kosher salt
- 1 tsp (5 mL) dried thyme leaves
- 3/4 tsp (4 mL) each cayenne and garlic powder
- 2 cups (500 mL) unsalted peanuts

LUNCH RUSH

DAN CLAPSON
FOOD@METRONEWS.CA

Residing within the 10th Ave. S.W. location of Community Natural Foods, Community Café has had a palatable makeover.

The space has been transformed into a more welcoming setting with recycled wood covering the tables as well as a more open, inviting feel.

Stopping by for a bite to eat led me to taste its Turkey Reuben ($7.99) as well as the Monkey's Lunch sandwich ($4.99).

Yes, I was that hungry. The Reuben boasted some toasted rustic rye bread as well as a great spread dubbed "Russian dressing."

I could taste some minced, sweet Gorkins that perfectly complimented the deli-sliced turkey.

The Monkey's Lunch sandwich was sweetly simple and consisted of peanut butter, honey, and grilled bananas.

It was just like a sandwich I'd have for lunch in elementary school. Comfort (lunch) food at its best!

Even though the sandwiches lack a side, there's a lot to choose from at the accompanying salad bar, or you can even go for an organic smoothie ($5.99 16 oz./$7.99 24 oz.).

Swing by the newly revamped café if you're looking for a quick, fulfilling lunch.

DON'T FORGET YOUR MANNERS ON HALLOWEEN

Is there such a thing as Halloween etiquette?
Anonymous

Interestingly enough, yes there absolutely is good Halloween etiquette. Below are six simple guidelines to help you have a fun and great Halloween season.

1. Never cross through the flowerbeds going from house to house. Always walk up the driveway or walkway.

2. Repeatedly ringing the doorbell is rude and unnecessary. When you arrive at the door, ring the doorbell once and wait for the door to be answered.

3. When answering the door, don't over-scare trick-or-treating toddlers.

4. Don't be greedy. If you're offered a large bowl of candy, take a little bit, not a huge handful, and always say thank you!

5. If the party invitation says "wear a costume," you are required to wear a costume.

6. The hours for trick-or-treating are dusk to 9-ish and then it really needs to come to an end.

THE NEW SEXY Electrify your savings

FUN AND FRUGAL

LESLEY SCORGIE
MONEY@METRONEWS.CA

A rotten economy makes extravagant dating nearly impossible.

Forget full-priced tickets to Arcade Fire or a romantic helicopter ride. I double dare you to use a coupon on your next date. According to CouponCabin's October 2011 survey, nearly 20 per cent of adults have used a coupon on their first date and received a positive reaction. Meanwhile, 75 per cent said they wouldn't be offended if their date used a coupon to pay.

Times have changed and it's no longer frowned upon to be frugal while dating. In fact, if frugality is one of your core values, saving money while dating is a great way to test whether your partner is financially compatible with you.

Downsize your date and focus on spending free quality time together. Grab a java and go for a walk. Play a game of tennis or Monopoly. If you're into old movies, rent DVDs from the library. Go grocery shopping and cook a meal rather than eating out.

Date online. Join dating communities like eHarmony and use coupons for your membership. Plus, you can pre-screen your date so you don't waste time and money getting to know someone who's incompatible with you.

Before you use a coupon, gauge whether your date would be cool with it or not. If you think they're into couponing, crack a joke about your Groupon deal of the day, and present the coupon to the server.

Saving money is sexy. Going into debt to impress a date is not.

ON MONEY

ALISON GRIFFITHS
MONEY@METRONEWS.CA

With household debt at historically high levels, small surprise that nearly half of all Canadians confess to living paycheck to paycheck.

And, judging by my inbox, many of you despair about ever getting ahead.

Forget the big picture for the moment. It just makes your head ache. Instead, focus on creating a little financial buffer by saving a few dollars on everyday expenses.

With winter approaching it's an excellent time to reduce your electricity footprint. I tackled mine three years ago.

My husband and I live in a leaky 160-year-old

Electricity costs:

- ▶ Clothes dryer: $500 to $1,000 annually
- ▶ Clothes washer: $100 annually
- ▶ Old fridge or freezer: $150 annually
- ▶ Heating and cooling: 60 per cent of total electricity bill stone house so our experience won't match a townhouse dweller. Still, every buck not spent is a buck back in your pocket.

With very little effort we saved at least $150 a month, or $1,800 a year.

1. I had an ancient fridge in my basement chugging away. The Ontario Power Authority hauled it away (and will still do so) for free.

Check your own jurisdiction. BC Hydro, for instance, picks up 10 to 24 cubic foot fridges gratis and gives you $30 to boot.

2. I've always been pretty good at turning off lights but I went one step further, turning off power bars, the satellite receiver and everything else that had a standby setting.

3. We changed to incandescent bulbs in low traffic, non-reading areas.

We initially switched everything but found they didn't provide enough illumination for intensive reading or computer work.

4. We weather-stripped, caulked like crazy and applied plastic film to windows facing the north westerly's.

5. The temp got tweaked and we adapted pretty well to higher air conditioning and lower heat settings. I estimate that about $80 of that $150 monthly savings was through heating and cooling alone.

6. It's become a matter of pride in our house that we use the dryer only for emergencies — for example, when it's 10 p.m. and someone forgot to hang out the sheets. I now actually prefer the crinkly feel of air-dried clothes and no longer use those icky anti-static sheets.

▶ Alison's money rule: Nibbling away at electricity expenses will put nearly $24,000 in my pocket.

Voilà! $150 saved monthly = $23,636 over 10 years at an average five per cent rate of return. Even more if you put it in your RESP or RRSP.

► Mike Napoli hugs Rangers closer Neftali Feliz after Texas beat St. Louis, 4-2, in Game 5 of the World Series last night.

ROB CARR/GETTY IMAGES

Rangers one win away from their first World Series title

Mike Napoli hit a tiebreaking two-run double in the eighth inning and the Texas Rangers rallied to beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-2, last night, taking a 3-2 World Series lead. Solo home runs by Mitch Moreland in the third and Adrian Beltre in the sixth off Chris Carpenter sparked the Texas comeback from a two-run deficit. Colby Lewis starts Game 6 for the Rangers tomorrow in St. Louis, trying to wrap up their first title.

Olympic odds looking up

► Trip to London seems more likely after Canadian women's soccer team draws group with Costa Rica, Cuba, Haiti ► Two teams from eight-team tournament will make the cut

A favourable draw has improved the chances of the Canadian national women's soccer team playing at next summer's Olympics, but no one is taking a trip to London for granted.

Canada has been placed in Group A, along with Costa Rica, Cuba and Haiti for the CONCACAF Olympic qualifying tournament, which will be held in January at BC Place Stadium.

"We do like what happened today as far as our draw," Canadian Soccer Association general secretary Peter Montopoli said after yesterday's draw.

"I think our team will be pleased with it. It is CONCACAF and CONCACAF is a difficult confederation. You have to be on your game and ready for each and every match day."

Coach John Herdman says Canada will need to combine patience and perseverance to be one of the two teams to move on to the Olympics.

How it works

The eight-team tournament will be held Jan. 19-29 at the newly refurbished BC Place Stadium in Vancouver.

"It's not going to be easy," Herdman said in a telephone interview from Guadalajara, Mexico, where the women are competing at the Pan American Games.

"I don't think any game

- The group winners will play the second-place team from the other group in the semifinals.
- The two teams that reach the final qualify for the London Games.

in the qualifying tournament is easy. The challenge is you have to be smart. You can't put your best team out every single game. You have to use the whole squad and be clever with which games you peak for."

Canada is the top-seeded team in Group A. The powerful U.S. team, which lost to Japan in the final of this summer's Women's World Cup, is the top seed in Group B.

Joining the Americans in Group B are Mexico, Guatemala and the Dominican Republic. CONCACAF is the region that covers North American, Central America and the Caribbean.

► Chris Pronger

Pronger out after taking stick to the eye

Flyers defenceman Chris Pronger will miss two to three weeks and spend the next few days on bed rest after taking a stick to the right eye against Toronto.

Pronger and Toronto's Mikhail Grabovski sprinted for a loose puck in the circle after a rebound off Flyers goalie Sergei Bobrovsky last night.

Grabovski slapped at the puck, but his stick connected with Pronger's stick and the blade shot straight up into the defenceman's face.

Pronger screamed in agony and instantly clutched his face. Hunched over, he skated straight to the bench, his hands over his eyes, and went to the dressing room with 8:02 left in the first period.

Pronger does not wear a visor. General manager Paul Holmgren said Pronger would not be cleared to play unless he wears one.

Holmgren said Pronger complained of blurred vision.

"I think he was very scared and rightly so," Holmgren said. "When something like that happens to your eye, you're worried about what's going on." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today's horoscope

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 What seemed so simple yesterday won't look quite so simple today, but tomorrow it will all make perfect sense again.
♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 There seems to be some confusion in your life at the moment, but don't worry, nothing bad will come of it.
♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 You should own up to your secret and move on.
♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 Be patient with your expectations of people.
♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 23 It would be a mistake to give up on something just because you can't understand what it's supposed to be about.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24-Sept. 22 You have a nasty habit of telling yourself that you are not good enough to succeed but that's nonsense.
♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 You often find it hard to make up your mind.
♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Don't make any hard or fast relationship decisions just yet.
♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 At some stage today you will realize that what you were hoping for is not going to happen, but that's actually pretty good news.

♐ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 What occurs over the next few days will prompt you to accept that maybe you don't know it all.
♑ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 You need to take a radically different approach in certain important areas of your life, particularly on the home front.
♒ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20. It is time to let go of something, or maybe someone, you have come to rely on a bit too much. It won't be easy, of course, but it can and must be done if you are to move on to better things.
